Vitamin supplements and feeding aid for Pets

Vitamins are essential elements and are vital for the well being of your pet. During the preparation and packaging process of pet food, much of the vitamins in the food can lose their effectiveness, become inactive or even destroyed by oxygen, light or heat. Therefore vitamin supplements are very important to keep your pet healthy.

The need for vitamins will be increased by gastro-intestinal disease, endo-parasitic infection, or diseases that need to be treated with Sulfonamide or Antibiotics.

NEKTON-DOG

Nourishing supplements for dogs.

Due to their eating behavior, dogs could be described as omnivores. In nature, they would find sufficient food to survive. Today we keep our dogs in a hygienic environment where their self-sufficiency is disturbed or not even possible anymore.

Our dogs are completely dependent on human's allocation of food. Therefore our responsibility towards our companions increases. The closer humans and dogs live together the greater the risk of a dog being humanized and fed like a human. Since we have the responsibility of providing food for our companion, we must never forget that its proper nutrition is essential to maintaining their good health.

These conclusions led the NEKTON-Products company to develop a series of products individually formulated to meet these demands, whether for daily health maintenance, specific health problems or particular periods in a dog's life.

Nekton-Dog-H it's a vitamin compound that contains not only all of the vitamins needed in a dogs body but also a high rate of biotin (Vitamin H). Nekton-Dog-H is especially useful improving abrasive, rough fur, unnatural light spots on the skin or other kind of skin alterations.

NEKTON-CAT

Auxiliary animal feed for cats.

Cats are almost exclusively meat eaters and are therefore considered carnivores. The food we feed our cats doesn't necessarily provide the daily natural diet as needed in form of meat, fat, micronutrients, vitamins and mineral nutrients. (That naturally would be covered through the absorption of the prey including giblets, stomach and intestines).

The distinctive feature of feline nutrition lies on Vitamins, protein and mineral nutrients. This specialization of the metabolism could under high pressure (high performance, show display, illness etc) lead to critical shortage of vital nutritional components.

To avoid such nutrient deficiencies and the disturbance of the metabolism we developed the Nekton-Cat product line.

NEKTON-CAT-VM

Is a high grade combination compound of mineral nutrition, micronutrients and a large amount of vitamins, enriched with for the cats essential amino-acids Arginine and Taurine. Nekton-Cat-VM is compiled as the basic dietary supplement for the daily administration to the cat.

NEKTON-CAT-V

Is a vitamin dietary supplement enriched with the essential amino acids Arginine and Taurine. Nekton-Cat-V completes the common food supply, especially at times of exposure (exhibitions, traveling, gestation and lactation periods, and illness or treatment times).

NEKTON-CAT-H

Is a high vitamin H (Biotin) compound enriched with minerals, micronutrients and amino-acids perfect to be administrated to cats with fur and/or skin problems.
